Versatile Security Appoints Joerg Dettmann as CTO

Versatile Security has during this summer increased its R&D capacity with 300%, moved to a new R&D office in Merseburg, Germany and is now promoting Joerg Dettmann to Chief Technology Officer.

Stockholm, Sweden, August 19th, 2014 – Versatile Security Sweden AB announces the appointment of Mr. Joerg Dettmann as Chief Technology Officer (CTO). Versatile Security is undergoing a rapid development department expansion which leads to new organization requirements and new processes; this will all be managed by the CTO's office headed by Mr. Dettmann.

"I'm very honoured and excited to take on this new challenging role. The organization is growing at a fast pace, which requires a lot of planning and hard work to make sure that productivity and quality stays at the same level as we have set out. I have a great team supporting me and together we'll continue to deliver the best credential management systems, with even more new and exciting features," said Joerg Dettmann, CTO, Versatile Security.

"Joerg and I have worked closely together for more than a decade, so this was an easy choice. I am 100% confident that this will lead to great things and that we'll be able to speed up development and have even more frequent releases of our market leading IAM products," said Joakim Thorén, CEO, Versatile Security.
