Versasec Announces Partnership with IDpendant

Distributor with Expertise in Smart Cards and Public Key Infrastructure Joins Versasec Partner Network

Stockholm, Sweden, June 8th, 2016 – Versasec, the leader in smart card management systems, announced today it has added German distributor IDpendant to its list of partners in Europe.

IDpendant is well known in Germany and beyond as an independent provider of IT security solutions. The distributor offers exceptional expertise around smart cards and public key infrastructure (PKI) solutions, making them a strong partner for Versasec in the region. Other services IDpendant provides for its customers include authentication technology, client security products, encryption solutions, mobile device management systems as well as security hardware.

“Our team at IDpendant works very hard at researching and finding only the best solutions to include in our expanding network of partners,” said Michael Gollner, IDpendant’s CEO. “Working with Versasec lets us offer our customers a bang-for-the-buck, high-quality, highly scalable identity and access management solution from a top-notch vendor.”

“IDpendant’s expertise in our solutions and broad knowledge of their markets have already netted a new joint customer in Germany and leads for several others,” said Joakim Thorén, CEO of Versasec. “It’s clear there is a growing global need for our state-of-the-art solutions that enable enterprises to securely authenticate, issue and manage user credentials, such as smart cards, cost efficiently and quickly. We’re very happy to have partners like IDpendant who represent the Versasec solutions so well around the world.”

Versasec’s solutions are affordable and easy to integrate, so organizations of all sizes can implement high levels of security. Versasec offers first-class support, maintenance, and training.
